FOREWORD BY THE MANAGING DIRECTOR

MS STELLA LAU

SEGi University & Colleges

Dear Class of 2023

On this joyous occasion, I applaud you for all that you've overcome and accomplished, as we all celebrate the boundless opportunities and successes that lie ahead of you.

Graduates, today marks one of the many successes and wins you're going to have in your life. We're so proud of you - all that you've achieved, and all that you will achieve in your very bright futures.

It goes without saying that success is not a one-man-show, you (and I) would not be where you (we) are today if not for the people around us - our family, loved ones, mentors, lecturers (and teachers), colleagues, friends and many more. I'd like to take this opportunity to invite you to reflect upon all the people that have contributed to your success today. Take a moment to tell them how grateful you are to them for all that they have done for you.

I thought it would also be timely that I introduce to you to a South-African word and philosophy while sharing with you some of my realisations in life.

"Ubuntu"

Ubuntu in simple terms means "I am, because you are". It means we are who we are because of the contributions of the people around us - those around us constitute who we are today.

"Ubuntu" is a profound philosophy for me because it made me realise that:

We are as great as we are today, not only because of the best of people around us, but also the worse - our foes who have taught us life's hardest and most painful lessons along the way. It reminds us to be thankful to everyone that has crossed our path in life (foes included) because without them - we wouldn't be who we are today.

If the people around us constitute us, we constitute those around us as well. In our daily actions we will inspire, motivate, and move those around us to grow, to expand and to become. It reminds us to be mindful of the individuals we are and the consequences of our positivity or negativity towards others. Choose to be positive towards others at all times.

Humanity as a whole is bound together. We achieve ourselves by sharing ourselves with others. This reminds us that our success depends on the success of the people around us (our colleagues, our friends, our family and more) - so always remember to live a life not only to enrich yourselves but devote your life to others around you as well.

In closing I hope you have picked up some inspirations from my personal reflections of the word "Ubuntu". I wish that you will carry within you:

A grateful heart. To always be thankful to the people you meet, the circumstances you find yourself in and the lessons you've learn along the way;

A positive spirit. To always have a positive outlook on life and seek to empower those around you;

A devoted attitude towards the greater good. To strive for excellence in all that you do for your family, community, country and the world.

Congratulations once again.

FOREWORD BY THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE

MS CHEAH GAIK CHIAM

SEGi College Penang

Dear Class of 2023

Today, we gather to celebrate your remarkable achievements and set forth on a journey of reflection and inspiration. As you 'Soar to Success,' let us pause to acknowledge the significant milestones that SEGi University & Colleges has achieved, milestones in which you, our graduates, have played an integral part.

SEGi University & Colleges' unwavering commitment to excellence in education has been validated through its outstanding achievements in both SETARA and MyQUEST. These accolades stand as a testament to the quality of your academic journey and our dedication to providing you with a world-class education. Remarkably, this year marks our 13th consecutive year at the pinnacle, underscoring our sustained commitment to excellence.

Our consistent excellence in SETARA and MyQUEST underscores our commitment to nurturing talent, fostering critical thinking, and empowering you to make a meaningful impact in your chosen fields. This legacy of excellence is something you can carry with pride as you step into your future.

In the global stage, SEGi University has achieved a rare distinction, being one of only 23 universities globally to earn an exceptional QS 5-star plus rating. This global recognition places us among the elite institutions prioritizing academic excellence, research, and student satisfaction. It is a testament to our dedication to providing a holistic educational experience that empowers you, our graduates, to excel academically and as global citizens.

But our journey to success doesn't conclude there. SEGi University is also proudly ranked 57th in South East Asia for the QS Asia University Ranking 2023. This remarkable feat underscores our commitment to global excellence in education and exemplifies our competitiveness on the international stage. This signifies that SEGi University & Colleges stand shoulder-to-shoulder with some of the most prestigious institutions in the region. It means that your degrees carry a global recognition that opens doors to limitless opportunities, both in your careers and in contributing to society at large.

As you, our graduates, move forward into the world, remember that you embody our theme of "Soar to Success." Your accomplishments mirror the dedication and hard work you have put into your studies. We have unwavering confidence that you will ascend even higher, making us even prouder.

So, as you step into this new phase of your life, carry forward the achievements of SEGi University & Colleges and let the theme of "Soar to Success" be your guiding light. Embrace the spirit of excellence, seize opportunities, and continue to soar, making your alma mater proud.

Congratulations on your well-deserved success, and may your future be as bright as the path you have carved at SEGi University & Colleges. Fly high, graduates, and soar to success!

FOREWORD BY THE PRINCIPAL

MS LEONG MI-CHELLE

SEGi College Penang

Dear Class of 2023

I am honoured and delighted to address you on this momentous occasion, the culmination of your hard work, dedication, and perseverance throughout your academic journey. Today, as we gather to celebrate your achievements, I want to share with you a concept that has the power to shape your future in profound ways – “ikigai.”

“Ikigai” is a Japanese term that encompasses the idea of finding your purpose in life, the reason you wake up in the morning, and the source of true joy and fulfilment. It represents the intersection of four essential elements:

1. What you love: Pursue your passions, those activities that ignite your spirit and fill you with enthusiasm.
2. What you are good at: Leverage your unique talents and skills to make a meaningful contribution to the world.
3. What the world needs: Identify the needs and problems of the world and find ways to address them. Your impact on others can be a great source of purpose.
4. What you can be paid for: Recognize that financial stability is important, and seek a path that allows you to sustain yourself and your loved ones.

As you embark on your post-graduation journey, I encourage you to reflect on these four elements of ikigai. Strive to find that sweet spot where your passions, skills, societal needs, and financial stability intersect. This is where you will discover your true purpose and experience a deep sense of fulfilment.

Remember that finding your ikigai is not a one-time event but an ongoing process. It may take time, exploration, and self-discovery. Embrace the journey and be open to change and growth along the way. Your pursuit of your ikigai will not only lead to personal happiness but also enable you to make a positive impact on the world.

As you leave the gates of this institution and step into the broader world, I have every confidence that you will not only excel in your chosen fields but also find your own unique ikigai. Your education has equipped you with the knowledge and skills needed to navigate life's challenges, and I am excited to witness the incredible contributions you will make to society.

Congratulations, graduates! Go forth, pursue your passions, live your ikigai, and make the world a better place. Your future is bright, and I have no doubt that you will achieve great success and lead lives filled with purpose and meaning.

Wishing you all the best in your future endeavours.

FOREWORD BY THE VICE-CHANCELLOR & CHIEF EXECUTIVE

SIR DAVID BELL KCB DL

University of Sunderland

The University of Sunderland is a life-changing institution, with the ambition to be student-focused, professions-facing and society-shaping.

We have c.23,500 students across our campuses in Sunderland, London, and Hong Kong, and with our worldwide partner institutions, like [MDIS Tashkent]. The University is represented in countries as diverse as Malaysia, Singapore, Botswana, Kenya, Trinidad, Vietnam and Greece. In addition, of the students studying in the UK, around 30% are international.

The University of Sunderland has major strengths in areas such as health, teacher education, business, technology, and the creative arts. It recently opened a new medical school, with 100 student doctors each year being trained alongside the next generation of nurses, paramedics, pharmacists and physiotherapists.

Around 1000 trainee teachers study at the University, ready to contribute at all stages – in pre-school, primary, secondary, and further education.

The University's Faculty of Business, Law and Tourism is recognised worldwide. Students from over 100 countries are studying on programmes which play a key role in preparing tomorrow's leaders for long and successful careers in a wide range of occupations.

Students following degrees in areas such as hospitality and events pursue industry-leading and high-quality programmes to meet the needs of a global market.

Courses focus on applied learning, influenced by Sunderland's world-leading research status in tourism.

The Faculty of Arts and Creative Industries at Sunderland is also recognised for its range of courses in media, film and radio production, and art and design, again underpinned by cutting-edge research.

Media courses are designed to help develop practical and theoretical skills; attributes that make graduates highly sought-after by employers in a broad range of careers such as television, radio, journalism, marketing, digital media, and teaching.

The University's Faculty of Technology educates students for professionally accredited qualifications in engineering and computer science. A key characteristic of the Faculty is the extent to which it works in partnership with local, national, and international companies, thus ensuring that students have access to the most-up-to-date industrial practices and techniques.

Across all subjects, the University of Sunderland ensures that its graduates are capable, enquiring, creative, enterprising, ethical, and global in outlook. In turn, this makes them confident and employable individuals, ready to make a positive contribution to the world around them.

FOREWORD BY THE VICE-CHANCELLOR

PROFESSOR JANE HARRINGTON

University of Greenwich

As Vice-Chancellor of the University of Greenwich, I am delighted to welcome all of you, graduates, friends, families and teachers, to today's ceremony. Today we celebrate new graduates of a university with a 130-year history, whose many accolades include best modern university in London for graduate outcomes.

I also want to celebrate the university's long and successful partnership with SEGi. As partners, we have much in common. We share the same approach to education, equipping students with academic and professional skills that prepare them for fulfilling careers.

In many ways, our partnership reflects the continued globalisation of learning and work. At our three home campuses in the UK, for instance, we have students from more than 150 different countries. Our ability to attract staff, students and research partners from across the world is key to achieving our mission to provide high standards of teaching, learning and research that reflect the needs of communities in the UK and across the globe. Every year, students from SEGi come to the UK to pursue our wide range of Master's and PhD programmes.

As graduates of a UK university but based in Malaysia, you are uniquely placed to succeed in a globalised and ever-changing world economy. The opportunities that surround you are boundless. You have developed the skills to succeed in this environment: the ability to communicate, to think critically, to work in a team, to solve problems creatively, and, perhaps most importantly, to adapt and respond to change. You will join our global network of alumni, which includes thousands of University of Greenwich graduates in Malaysia. Our alumni community is there to support you at every stage of your future career.

Though they are more than 6,000 miles apart, the UK and Malaysia share a long and rich history of collaboration and partnership. Our two countries have always enjoyed a close commercial, political and diplomatic relationship. We both share a common attitude to trade and investment and a welcoming commercial environment. As the next generation of professionals and leaders, you will play a crucial part in future successes in our increasingly interconnected world.

As well as looking to the future, today is about taking a moment to take pride in your academic achievements. It is also a day of gratitude. I would like to give my own thanks to the family members who have joined us today. Your love, kindness and support has played a major part in bringing about today's celebration of success.

As new graduates, prepare to seek new challenges. It's a time to be confident, be inspired, be proud, be caring and, above all, aim high. I look forward to following and celebrating all your future successes. Congratulations on everything you have achieved and good luck for your future. Always be the best version of yourself. I know you will continue to make Greenwich proud.

FOREWORD BY THE CHANCELLOR

JACK HAWKINS, JR.

Troy University

Commencement is a monumental day in the life of Troy University. It is the day when years of dedication and hard work are rewarded. It is the day to celebrate achievement. On behalf of the Troy University family around the world, I am pleased to welcome our guests to this important ceremony.

A special word of welcome is in order for the families of our graduates. Many of you have sacrificed a great deal to make this special day possible. Many attending this ceremony have helped shape the values and vision of our graduates. Thank you for supporting and guiding those we honor this day.

Commencement is also a time of reflection. It provides graduates the occasion to look back one last time at their TROY careers before moving forward. I hope our graduates' memories include those special faculty members who have helped them along the way. Our faculty and staff work hard each day to ensure Troy University provides a valuable education experience for our students.

Great universities stir great emotions, especially during special occasions such as commencement. Thank you for sharing this momentous occasion with us. It's an honor to welcome you to Troy University.
